Several users have suggested there should be a way to reverse the anagram feature to return to the original random text. This feature is already somewhat built-in. Whenever you generate random text, the resulting text is put on the clipboard. But if you use the anagram feature, it changes the text in the window but the original text remains on the clipboard. Therefore, you can effectively reverse (undo) the anagram just by clicking in the window, have suggested there should be a way to reverse the anagram feature to return to the original random text.
